Super Six Touch rugby tournament returns

Co-founder appeals to government and corporate SA

By Athenkosi Tsoteli

Basetsana Magashule, the co-founder of the popular touch rugby tournament Super Six Touch Champs, wants the event to be a platform to take the sport to the mainstream.

Touch rugby is usually associated with a casual game you would play on the streets, in school or during practice but for some it is a game where they show their competitive and athletic ability.

Those who love it are not outcasts of society but have found something that unites them on the sports field.

The Super Six Touch Champs will make a return on May 28 at the Marks Park Sports Club and that sense of community will be there too.

There will be plenty of action in the men's division, U21 men's and women's section, and open mixed division.

The winners will get R3,000 cash, trophies, medals and Super Six shirts.

Since its establishment in 2019, the Super Six Touch Champs has grown from strength to strength and is now one of the premium touch rugby competitions in SA.

"When we started we had a great interest in the tournament because in SA there's not a culture of tournaments, we usually play once a year," said Magashule.

"So Super Six has come in to bridge the gap and offer more tournaments to our community. People are excited and we have gathered a strong community that believes and backs us, and enjoys our tournament."

"At the moment we are sitting on about 25 teams, with over 300 spectators. We are recognised by our governing body [SA Touch Association]. They will be at our tournament. They will be using it for scouting and selections.

"Within the touch community our brand has grown a lot. What helped it is we pride ourselves on giving back; because of that we've had buy-in from the touch people."

The end goal for Magashule and her partners is to see their beloved sport grab the attention of the government and corporates, as well as mainstream media.

"Hopefully, one day we'll get sponsors, be on TV and be on the map because our sport is not well known. We're not backed by the government. We want to grow the sport so that government can see it and fund it," Magashule said.

Veteran Mahlangu hopes to break age record with title win

Wonderboy warns rival Sonjica not to look at his age as it's 'just a number'

By Bongani Magasela

Bongani "Wonderboy" Mahlangu intends to box professionally until he turns 50. The vastly experienced former Olympian is 42 years old and is on the cusp of rewriting local history should he win the SA title at his age.

Mahlangu, from Boipatong in the Vaal will challenge Ayabonga "Jay Jay" Sonjica for his SA and IBF Continental Africa junior-featherweight titles at Orient Theatre in East London on Sunday afternoon.

Their 12-rounder will headline Rumble Africa Promotions' first tournament of the year. Sonjica, 31, is from Duncan Village, near East London.

Both fighters are former Olympians. Mahlangu is inspired by the legendary American Bernard "B-Hop" Hopkins, who boxed until he turned 50.

"I have been in this sport for 38 years," said Mahlangu. That includes his time in the amateurs ranks where he went to the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece, the Commonwealth Games in 2006 in Melbourne, Australia, and the All Africa Games 2003 in Nigeria.

"I was the first athlete in Team SA to qualify for the 2004 Olympics when we were in Nigeria," he said. "I also intend to be the first South African to win a national title at 42 years old."

Mahlangu, who is trained in his own Wonderboy Boxing

Academy by younger brother Sandile, said: "If the engine is still willing to roll, why not drive the car?"

He insisted that age was "just a number".

"I live clean - don't smoke or drink - but live, sleep, dream, walk and talk boxing."

"We have something special for Sonjica. If Sonjica approaches our fight looking at my age then he is in for a torrid afternoon."

"I feel like I am 30. I am so happy to be going back to the Eastern Cape, which is my happy hunting ground. My first SA junior-featherweight title, I won it there in 2015, with a... knockout against Sivwe Hasheni. I also defended it there against Mfusi Makhayi and Bonakele Bikitsha."

He also lost it there to Ludumo Lamati in 2017.

Mahlangu has previously held the WBA Pan African and Intercontinental bantamweight, SA, WBO International and IBF International junior-featherweight titles. Mahlangu has chalked up 22 wins, 10 by short route, in 30 fights. Sonjica is undefeated after 10 fights.

Fulton might be pushed to defend against Tete, says Tengimfene

Trainer wants boxer to fight for WBA or WBO belts

By Bongani Magasela

The world is Zolani "Last Born" Tete's oyster after his great victory in annexing the IBF International, Commonwealth and WBO intercontinental junior-featherweight boxing belts on Saturday night.

The hard-hitting 34-year-old leftie from Mdantsane knocked Jayson Cunningham out cold in the fourth round at Wembley Stadium in London.

His manager Mlandeli Tengimfene said Tete's British promoter Frank Warren has a cordial relationship with Premier Boxing Champions, which controls the career of WBO champ Stephen Fulton, the American who also holds the WBC belt.

"Zolani's name is still big with the WBO despite having lost their bantamweight belt in 2019. They still rate him highly," said Tengimfene, whose business acumen enabled him to convince Warren to sign Tete in 2016.

He said that is why the Puerto Rico-based boxing organisation added its intercontinental belt when Tete challenged Cunningham for other belts in London.

"My feeling is that the WBO will push that Fulton must defend against Zolani.

Remember, the WBA and IBF champion Murodjon Akhmadaliev from Uzbekistan is with promoter Eddy Hearn, who do not see eye to eye with Frank," said the 2018 BSA Manager of the Year award winner.

"Zolani's performance on Saturday was top drawer and it convinced me and my team that he is where he must be.

"Come end of the year, Zolani must fight for either the WBA or WBO championship.

"Winning those belts will ultimately force Hearn to bring his champion in for a unification bout, which is the ultimate."

Tete and his team - Tengimfene and trainers Loyiso Mtshali and Makazole Tete (the champion's older brother) - were given a rousing welcome back home in East London on their arrival on Monday afternoon.

Goldberg expects fireworks as Mokebisi, Healy collide

Winner to annex vacant WBF junior featherweight title

By Bongani Magasela

WBF president Howard Goldberg expects fireworks when Matshidiso Mokebisi and Katie Healy collide for the vacant WBF junior featherweight title at Steve Tshvete Memorial Banquet Hall in Middelburg, Mpumalanga, on Friday. This is despite concerns over the eligibility of Healy, the 24-year-old former kick-boxing champion who has only four professional boxing contests.

"I think it is going to be a very good fight," said the former school principal and university lecturer from Cape Town. "I hope Mokebisi is not taking her opponent for granted simply because Healy has four fights."

Goldberg confirmed that the winner between Thato

Bonokoane and Jhaleel Payao will earn the rights to challenge for the vacant WBF junior featherweight title. Bonokoane will defend that organisation's Intercontinental title against the 29-year-old Filipino who has previously held the WBC Youth title. Goldberg warned: "If I was Thato, I was going to be very careful."

Payao's trainer Jingjing Tapora was quoted saying: "Knocking out our opponent is always our game plan every time we go outside the country so that there won't be a hometown decision."

Tapora was in his younger brother Jhaak's corner in SA when he demolished Lusanda Komanisi in two rounds in 2017. "A knockout is the best strategy to walk out with a victory in South Africa. Our game plan is to pressure and target his body so that he'll gas out," he said. Bonokoane is coming off a points win in his first defence against Innocent Mantengu in April.

Katie Healy will clash with Matshidiso Mokebisi for the vacant WBF junior featherweight title. /TWITTER

Bonokoane was not his usual talkative self during the interview yesterday. "I will let my hands do the talking so that I don't eat my words on the day [of the fight]."

Trainer Charity Mukondelile said: "I want Thato to win so that he features in J4 Joy Promotions tournament in Durban in December."

Arnel Lubisi and Mthobisi Nkosi will fight for the vacant Mpumalanga bantamweight belt. Action will commence from 6.30pm.
